The whole trouble is the want of a fence on one side of the grounds, and the players are of opinion that as they furnish to be put up at public expense. A their consideration. The question committee of the Oahu Cricket Club every man should now ask himself is hoped that His Excellency will be able to comply with their request.

The Luse is of the opinion that Honolulu ought to have at least one Portuguese on each of the tickets for Nobles and Representatives. That nationality, it is claimed, furnishes 5,000 votes throughout the Kingdom. Our contemporary ought to come out on a more comprehensive platform. It does not follow that Portuguese interests will be best promoted by men of the same nationality in the legislature. If that theory were correct, we should have had the interests of the Hawaiians as a people very conspicuously maintained in the recent fired out cabinet and legislature, as the Hawaiians were in the majority. The best way to secure proper representation of the Portuguese is to elect men whose views are broad enough to take in the requirements of all the nationalities of which this polyglot Kingdom is com-

The following statement from a California paper summarizes the inlast year. It will prove interesting to the Honolulu public, in view of the project on foot to establish a Mutual Fire and Marine Insurance Company in these Islands with local capital:

The annual report of the State Insurance amount written by the insurance companies last year was $38,521,430. The California companies received $86,38,727 of this sum. The premiums amounted to $5,185,772 23, of which amount $2,654.371 08 was paid in fire losses, leaving a profit to the fire companies of $2,331,401 15. Marine policies were issued in this Single to the amount of $120,960,347. On these premiums to the extent of $1,515,-279 79 was collected. The losses paid were $676,325 30, leaving a profit of $848,954 49 to government. Let us have it.

THE Dully Bulletia, which sometimes puts things in a very terse and epigrammatic way, once described the proceedings of the last Legislative Assembly as "a wild caraival of legisla tire riot," The language of our contemporary exactly portrayed the facts of the case. The issue is now plainly presented to the people of this counand an indefinite continuance of "legevery community, it is not impossible individuals who would like to be re- nate squabble. garded as intelligent and decent, and who at the same time would be better pleased to see a repetition of the wild carnival" of the last two ses ences, possessed by a small electoral the maintenance of the national honor | more severe, in inverse ratio to the and the judicious expenditure of the numbers, when the selection comes national income. From whatever point of view the intelligent elector scans the lists of candidates, he cannot fail to see that the one known as the native ticket affords no hope, from the antecedents of such of the candidates as have already been before the public, that the essential features of the new Constitution will be maintained by them, or that the legislation effected under it will be any improvement on the past. Looking at the reform ticket, however, the elector cannot fail to observe that it contains the names of men who, though not Hawaiians themselves, have done and are doing more for the benefit of the native race every day of their lives than ever was or will be accomplished in that direction by men of the stripe of Lilikalani and Keau had they and their coadjutors remained in power to the end of the ninety-ninth century. There are many minor questions and diversities of opinion cropping up every day among supporters of the great reform, but there is little or nothing of this state of affairs heard from the opposition side. The supsurance business done in that State porters of the so called native ticket will consist largely of political sore-heads and people who have not yet attained their majority as independent thinkers on public questions, but whose political creed from time im-memorial could be summed up in Commissioner shows that out of ninety-four fire insurance companies doing business in the State only four are California companies, and all but sixty are foreign companies. NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The whole world of liberalized civilization is looking at Hawaii to-day. Should this nation on election day go back on the Honolulu resolutions of the 30th of June, the universal judgment would be that the sooner it abandons the effort at self-government the better for all the people.
